

There is something starkly pathetic about Great Britain's election. Winston Churchill appears to have overthrown the Socialist Labor government — but the result is a national problem rather than a Conservative party triumph.

We in the United States, whether labor or management, recognize that better wages and profits and a higher standard of living must be dug out of increased production. British labor has refused to face this fact — instead, it has clung to the academic Socialist theory that all you have to do to assure everyone a good living is simply to divide up the production (or wealth) which the nation already has.

But Britain, after all the post-war years of Labor party management, has discovered in a bitter hour that it is easier to redistribute poverty than to redistribute wealth. There isn't enough present production in any country on earth to afford all its people what they want — least of all in England, which has been impoverished by two wars and the loss of some of her richest lands overseas.

The British nation has discovered this, I say, but not the British Labor party. For the election returns indicate that the Laborites still hold to the old-time Socialist line. Churchill's party was not on converted Labor votes but on those of the old Liberal party and perhaps some maiden ballots.

Therefore the picture confronting the Conservative party as it tries to form a new government and fight Britain's way back to prosperity and national business health is a pathetic one — a house divided against itself by suspicion, ignorance, and obstinacy.

The blame is all on labor, however. The rise of Britain's labor movement to physical control of the government, first under Ramsay MacDonald after World War I, and under Clement Attlee after the last war, can be traced to generations of British managers failing to modernize their plants, refusing to invest money in new systems and machines — thereby denying the workers, the nation, and their own stockholders, the increasingly better standard of living to be found in the United States, and even in pre-war Germany.

But it should be added that British industry has turned for the better in recent years. There has been considerable modernization. And if Churchill and his Conservatives are able to keep this industrial reform going to greater heights perhaps they will carry the nation through its present crisis. For British labor, no different from other men, is bound to co-operate in the end if progress be shown — certainly there is no alternative in the exploded Socialist myth, which has brought Britain to the verge of bankruptcy.

Biggest, Best Halloween Show Indicated

All Hope grade schools will participate in a Halloween Carnival starting at 6 p. m. Wednesday, October 26, and proceeds will be divided equally to carry out programs at individual schools under direction of the Parent Teachers Association. The affair will be held in the Coliseum at Fair park.

Brookwood and Oglesby schools will be in charge of concessions, Garland will handle the program including the Queen's Contest and Paisley will have charge of food. All signs point to the biggest and best carnival ever held. There will be all kinds of games and side-shows, grab bags, a country store, small ponies for children, and everything that makes a Halloween carnival. All the children will be costumed in scary Halloween garb. Highlighting the program will be the selection and coronation of a carnival king and queen. Sandwiches, pie and coffee will be available to visitors.

Illinois Mill Is Abandoned by Shanhouse

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 26—It was announced today by Leonard Shanhouse, president, after a meeting of the board of directors of W. Shanhouse Sons, Inc., that due to high production costs, a dwindling labor supply, and a growingly more critical labor market, the 55-year-old Rockford outerwear clothing firm is discontinuing its manufacturing operation in Rockford. The executive, general, and sales office will, however, remain here.

Mr. Shanhouse announced that this discontinuance will occur at the completion of work currently in production. He further stated, "This has been a hard decision to make. We appreciate the loyalty of our employees and would not have made this decision if there was any other economic alternative. We have been fighting such a decision for a number of years because of economic reasons, but now the situation makes this decision imperative."

In recognition of the loyalty and co-operation of its employees, the company indicated its intention to pay severance pay and other benefits to its employees. W. Shanhouse Sons, Inc., was founded by William Shanhouse in Chicago in 1896 with six employees. In 1906 the plant was moved to Rockford and occupied space at South Church and Chestnut Streets. As business increased the firm built its own plant at South Main and Kent Streets in 1916, manufacturing mainly work clothes. Business continued to increase and in 1940 W. Shanhouse Sons, Inc. moved to its present location at 1916 Eleventh Street.

The early years of World War II showed further expanded sales and employment reached a peak of 600. The peak dwindled to its present Rockford force of 80 due to the vast growth of the metal working industry in Rockford, and due to the critical labor situation that correspondingly arose there, to meet its production needs, the company acquired two new plants; one in 1948 in Hope, Ark., and the other more recently at Magnolia, Ark. In recent years as much as 75% of the company's production has of necessity been produced in these Southern plants.

School Teachers Meet, Organize AEA Committees

At least one representative from each school in Hempstead county met at Hope High School Thursday night in a training session led by Miss Amy Jean Green, a member of the faculty of Henderson State Teachers College. Miss Green gave a detailed explanation of the functions and duties of several A. E. A. committees.

It was emphasized by Miss Green and others at this meeting that efforts should be made to strengthen the professional organization on a local level by insuring wider participation from out in the field in making the policies of our state professional organization. Committee chairmen were appointed to study suggestions already made from the state level and report these suggestions to a general county teachers' meeting to be held on Tuesday evening, November 6.

The following committees and their chairmen are listed: Legislative, Thurston Hulsey; Teacher Education and Professional Standards, Mrs. E. R. Brown; Policies, Mrs. W. A. Williams; Constitution, Mrs. Mamie Bell Holt; Resolutions, Curtis Garner; Educational Research and Taxation, John Houck Jr.; Membership, Mrs. Owen Atkins. The meeting was well attended and much enthusiasm was displayed over the idea of making the local teacher association more functional.

SPG Land Still Restricted; U. S. Agencies Banned

In a letter to Ed Thrash, chairman of the Hope C. of C. Agricultural Committee, Congressman Owen Harris explained the government still classifies restrictions on farms in the old Proving Ground.

Farmers of the area sought to have the restriction lifted in order to reap benefits of services offered by government agencies. Mr. Harris' letter, which follows, explains why the government will continue to ban agency personnel from the area.

Mr. Ed Thrash, Chairman Agricultural Committee Chamber of Commerce Hope, Arkansas
Dear Mr. Thrash:

This will refer again to letter from you as Chairman of the Agricultural Committee and Mr. Ray Lawrence, Manager of the Hope Chamber of Commerce, with reference to the difficulties encountered in the old Southwestern Proving Ground area.

From my letters to the agencies involved which provide the various services in the area, I have replied from both the county offices located there and a joint letter from the State Soil Conservation office and the Arkansas State PMA Office. These are the two services most concerned with the problem.

As to allotments for cotton quotas of the county, I am assured that all crop land in the entire area of the old Southwestern Proving Ground will be counted in the total acreage planted within the county and allotment made. You may advise the farmers of Hempstead County that no distinction will be made with respect to the farms in the Proving Ground area and all other farms in the County.

You may recall efforts that I made last year in helping to bring about an amendment to the Cotton Allotment and Quota Act which in some measure adjusted inequities and provided for acreages within the Proving Ground area. With regard to this problem it might be of interest to the farmers in the county to know that I proposed an amendment to the Agricultural Appropriation Act this year, which was adopted, to provide for measurement of cotton acreage this year.

Thus though we have no quotas, there is an effort to make a record and to avoid in the future should we have cotton quotas, the same difficulties and inequities which the farmers had last year. An announcement to carry out this directive of the Congress by my Amendment, is to be made in a few days.

With reference to the more difficult problem of providing services by the agencies in parts of the Southwest Proving Ground area, serious questions have brought a reply from the Soil Conservation Service and the Production and Marketing Administration.

At the time this property was made available for production purposes, it was classified into three general types by the Army Engineers, as follows:

1. Land retained under Government ownership that is fenced and on which no one is allowed to trespass because of the very great danger.
2. Land transferred to individuals for surface use only. Such land has been partially cleared of unexploded shells and consequently is not dangerous for any purpose.
3. Land transferred to individuals for any use desired. This land has been completely cleared of unexploded shells and consequently is not dangerous for any purpose.

In transferring the land, I understand the deeds specified the Federal Government would not be responsible for any damage resulting from explosions. The responsibility was assumed by the owner. The lands on which no restrictions were placed on the use are being and will continue to be served by both the Production and Marketing Administration and the Soil Conservation Service in assisting farmers fully in carrying out practices.

Where the use of the property is restricted because it has not been completely cleared of unexploded shells, no assistance is given that would violate the restrictive use. Assistance is provided and will continue to be provided for practices which would not violate such restrictive use.

As you have stated, some farmers have cultivated extensively some of the restricted land and thus far have experienced no damage or harm. It is a number of farmers located in the area requesting the assistance in whom I am sure you are primarily concerned. Some of the practices requested are constructing stock ponds, ditches and terraces. Local personnel in these agencies have been advised of the questions with the State Offices as to whether they should render the assistance by providing for such

Get ready to take an exciting daily trip into the world of tomorrow—with its space travel, interplanetary flights, strange visitors from other spheres, futuristic uniforms, weapons, and machines.

You will see this and more in "Chris Welkin, Planeteer," the science-adventure comic strip beginning Monday, November 5, in Hope Star. It's an unusual new daily feature that ties right in with today's headline stories about pilotless bombers, guided missiles, man-made satellites, atomic rockets, and trips to Mars and the Moon.

Chris Welkin literally means "traveler of the heavens" (from St. Christopher, patron saint of travelers, and the English word welkin, meaning "vault of heaven" or sky). The hero is a daring, handsome earth man of the year 1999. An expert in guided missiles and astral science, he believes the universe is made up of countless worlds, some inhabited.

Welkin's interplanetary exploits begin when he is whisked away from earth in a Flying Triangle manned by invaders from a distant planet. Other characters you'll meet include the sinister "Mr. 7," leader of the invaders' exotic Amazonia, a mysterious beauty from outer space; Dr. William J. Q. Budd, a comic professor and rocketeer; college youth and sidekick of Chris Welkin.

This new comic strip was created by NEA Service, the world's largest newspaper feature service, as interest in planetary exploration reaches a new high among scientists, laymen, and especially the youth of our nation. The story is based on scientific knowledge and theory, and brings you fascinating adventures without resorting to unbelievable fantasy.

Author of "Chris Welkin" is Russ Winterbottom, NEA fiction editor and specialist in science fiction writing. His prolific typewriter has spun millions of words for magazines, books and the comics. Winterbottom has written eight science fiction books, including "Maximo the Amazing" and "Lost Land of Giants," and has been a regular contributor to such magazines as "Astounding," "Planet," "Amazing," "Fantastic Adventures," and "Future Stories."

George M. Cohan got the idea for "Over There."

A train gives a feeling of movement. That is why riding a lower berth makes you love your country more. You roll up the curtain in the night. You look out at the landscape that other people own, but somehow it belongs to you and you belong to it.

It flashes by in the night... a darkened barren farm... a neon sign selling beer... white bulbs welcoming the high school crowd to hamburgers after the basketball game... a silent stare with white flaring signs saying "buy color television now."

You lie stretched out at ease, you in your lower berth, and gaze at the troubles and victories of your time as the communities and people whizz by. It is all part of you, and all so far away.

You are part of it all and yet away from it all. Lying in that lower berth you are as separate as if you were in a jet plane flying toward the Yalu river.

There is a fat man puffing himself to sleep in the upper berth above you. There are two stern lady salesmen wheezing in sleep beside you.

You are all knit together as the train wheels on through the night — and yet kept apart in puritan privacy by the tradition of a green cloth curtain.

Looking out at night from the soft white meadows of a lower berth, you gaze at America, the loveland land too wide for any eye to hold or any heart to cup.

Wide and wasteful it streams by, too much for you to spear in the dark, too wide to daylight under standing, just America, seeking a world focus, its many empty acres crying for employment in a crowded world.

Or so it seems from a lower berth.

Construction of Hospital Is Urged Now

Hope Chamber of Commerce will ask County Judge C. Cook to proceed at once with construction of a $500,000 county hospital, it was disclosed at the Chamber offices today.

In the general election of November last year the voters authorized construction of a $900,000 hospital with up to 50 per cent of the cost expected to be born by federal aid. However, the county's tax limit was definitely not more than half the gross amount.

Today's chamber announcement said the hospital matter was discussed thoroughly at a meeting of the board of directors with Chairman Frank McLarty of the chamber's hospital committee Wednesday night. The board discovered that, at least for the time being, federal aid for the hospital construction is out of the question — and therefore voted unanimously to ask the county judge to proceed with a 100-per-cent local project at the $500,000 figure.

Chamber president Mike Kelly appointed Basil York and Dewey Baker to act as a committee with himself and Secretary-Manager Ray Lawrence to present the hospital request to Judge Cook at an early date.

In addition to board members there were present at Wednesday night's meeting in the chamber offices Drs. Jim McKenzie and Jud Martindale, and Attorney Albert Graves.

Other chamber of commerce announcements follow:

Thursday Oct. 25, at 2 p. m. the planning committee for the County "Tree Planting Program" met in the chamber of commerce office. This committee worked out plans for newspaper articles and radio programs emphasizing the importance of tree planting and forestry management. The importance of personal contacts and possibilities of community meetings was stressed by this committee. It is hoped that several communities in the county will request representatives from the SCS and other agencies to help in contacting local meetings and programs.

Applications and orders for pine seedlings may be turned in to the SCS office, county agent's office, PMA office, FHA office, and the chamber of commerce office. The chamber of commerce will be used as a clearing house and pooling station for orders, and all orders will be mailed from the chamber office. Better-planned planting programs can be arranged if orders are turned in by November.

Boyle Says America Is a Wonderful Adventure—as Seen From a Lower Berth

By HAL BOYLE
Rochester, N.Y., (AP) —America is a wonderful adventure—seen from a lower berth.

You can roll up the country you love and see it speed by in the night. Maybe it is darkness, or magic, or middle-age, but it always gives me a thrill.

The excitement I felt at traveling a train at the age of twelve I still feel at forty. You would think gypsy and imported needles in Baltimore or trying to peddle in United Nations goal of a free world in Dubuque—well, you would think a man would either stay juvenile or become cynical.

The truth is that neither happens. The United States still is a bedrock base of optimism. And the choice isn't therefore so simple. You stay as young and eager as life first taught you.

People are spying in near places and dying in far places to preserve the basic American goals.

What they achieve nobody can truly measure.

But lying at night in a lower berth in a railway car rolling across the fertile fields of our land, stretch, how much they mean, how empty they must be right now for those who used to be there and now are someplace else, holding the American life afar.

It humbles you quite a bit. The broad acres of harvested grain surge around you, washing away like rain through smog.

This is the heartland of our time, the cultivated acres you see from a lower berth as you speed across the growing places, lit by the fires of the spaced but unsleeping muscled haunts of steel.

In summer you can bookkeep the thousands of fireflies as you wheel on. Other times you can count the music of the wheels—that where

No Plans to Release Reservists

Washington, Oct. 26 (AP)—An army spokesman said last night there are no plans to release organized reservists sooner than the 24 month active duty term specified in the universal military training and service act.

He spelled out the army's reserve release plans as follows:
1. All organized reservists will serve 24 months. The only exceptions, he said, will be enlisted men whose extended enlistments expire before 24 months. They will be released on that earlier date and have no further reserve obligation.

2. Enlisted veterans and non-veterans called involuntarily from the volunteer and inactive reserve will be released by this Dec. 20.

3. Enlisted veterans called voluntarily from the volunteer and inactive reserve will be released after 18 months service or when their extended enlistments expire, whichever is sooner.

4. Officer veterans called either voluntarily or involuntarily from the volunteer or inactive reserve may apply for release after 17 months service since the Korean outbreak.

5. Officer non-veterans will serve 24 months, whether called voluntarily or involuntarily.

UN Korean War Team Starts Tour

Washington, Oct. 26 (AP)—A United Nations team of 48 Korean war veterans, representing 19 nations, leaves today in two units to start a nationwide tour.

One unit, traveling exclusively by plane, will traverse the northern states, with one stop in Canada. The other unit, moving by plane and bus, will take a southern route to the West Coast.

The 48 fighting men were assembled in Tokyo only a week ago and flown to Washington to participate in ceremonies marking the sixth anniversary of the United Nations.

One group will fly to St. Louis, Nov. 5, Quincy, Ill., bus to Hannibal, Mo. and Kansas City, all Nov. 7; Oklahoma City, Nov. 16.

Rain or Snow in Western Areas

By The Associated Press
There were wet spots — rain or snow — in western areas today but it was generally fair weather east of the Mississippi river.

Rain fell in the central plains in parts of the southwest and in central Texas. Wyoming reported light snow.

It continued cool in the central Rockies and central Great Plains and the cold air and rain headed for north central states. One of the cool spots was Williston, N. D., with a reading of 18 above. It also was cooler in the eastern section of the country. The low at Elkins, W. Va., was 30 above. Temperatures were around normal in the Far West and the Southern states.

$25 in Prizes for Hallowe'en Window Art

Cash prizes totaling $25 will be offered students of Brookwood, Garland, Paisley and Oglesby elementary schools for the best window-decoration jobs done on downtown store and office buildings this Halloween season.

The prize list is to be donated jointly by the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Hope Star, in the annual program of Parent-Teacher associations to divert Halloween vandalism into something artistic and non-destructive.

As announced today by Mrs. George W. Robinson, chairman of the Hallowe'en Carnival Committee of the PTAs of the four elementary schools, the program calls for youngsters to use temper paint—which washes off easily—in decorating commercial windows with decorative advertising the annual school Hallowe'en Carnival in Fair park Coliseum beginning at 8 p. m. Wednesday, October 31.

The decorating work downtown will begin today.

How the $25 in prizes will be distributed is to be announced later.

Ex-Convict Is Held In Liquor Deaths

Atlanta, Oct. 26 (AP)—A former convict charged with murder in the death of 31 persons who died here after drinking poisoned liquor was identified last night as a mixer of deadly moonshine.

Solicitor Paul Webb of Fulton county said a north Georgia farmer told him he saw John R. (Fat) Hardy blend wood alcohol and well water at an abandoned farmhouse about 25 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The brew was made a few days before a wave of moonshine liquor deaths began sweeping Atlanta. Webb said the farmer related.

Webb said the farmer—32-year-old Luke Turner—told him last night that Hardy was aided by an unidentified Negro in mixing the deadly stuff.

A few hours earlier the solicitor had filed murder charges against Hardy, a 380-pounder.

The huge one-time convict admitted he had peddled 90 gallons of a mixture of wood alcohol and water to Negro bootleggers here, Webb disclosed.

Hardy, 44, was found yesterday in an Atlanta hospital, where he was being treated for a fractured arm suffered, he said, in a motor car accident. He was immediately placed under guard.

Since the "wave" of moonshine deaths took its first toll Sunday night, 28 Negroes and two white persons have died and 301 other victims have received hospital treatment.

At mid-week, two white men died of wood alcohol poisoning at near by Winder Ga. and a third was reported in critical condition. These deaths brought the total fatalities in the Atlanta area to 32.

Sees Closer U. S. - British Relations

Washington, Oct. 26 (AP)—U. S. officials predicted today that the conservative victory will result in closer American-British ties, high-level talks in early White House meetings, and President Truman's return to power.

The White House itself had no immediate comment on Churchill's return to power.

Informed sources said, however, that an invitation is expected to go out to Churchill soon and that a White House meeting may be held in a matter of months.

But President Truman is expected to wait for Churchill to make the first move on the Tory leader's campaign proposal for a Big Three meeting with Soviet Premier Josef Stalin.

Mr. Truman has won personal regard for Churchill. But the President is on record with repeated statements that he does not plan to meet Stalin until he has won a second term.

However, the President probably would not wait so long to meet Churchill, who is expected to arrive in Washington on Sunday.

Mr. Truman and Churchill met in London in July, 1945, at Potsdam, Germany. Churchill was then prime minister, during that conference.

The fifty-day election campaign was won by the Labor party, which squeaked through with another narrow victory. This would have given Labor Left-Winger Aneurin Bevan support for his "third force" plan of Britain's best role in post-war relations, and American-British cooperation would have diminished sharply.

Officials forebode that Churchill's government, as it promised during the election campaign, would become a more vigorous and active partner with the United States in the fight against Communism. The Labor party campaign claims that it held back the "impulsive" Americans from stumbling into war were not well received here, to put it mildly.

But, it is believed, the Labor party will have to work out problems with Clement Attlee and Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, who always felt they had to persuade too much. Mr. Bevin did not believe the authority that is now expected to be accorded to Anthony Eden in foreign affairs.

Some observers predicted that the Labor party's victory would mean a more active role for the United States in the world, particularly in military matters, and that this could clear the way for American membership in the North Atlantic pact.

Some, on the other hand, predicted that the Labor party would be a more active partner with the United States in the world, particularly in military matters, and that this could clear the way for American membership in the North Atlantic pact.

Fight Films Make Many Movie Stars

Ever since Richard Barthelmess made "The Patent Leather Kid" and Reginald Denny became famous in "The Leather Stocking" series, the fight picture has been a stepping stone to movie fame.

Rugged Jeff Chandler is the latest Hollywood star to stand on the threshold of triumph, success with his powerful performance as a pugilist in Universal-International's "Iron Man," opening Sunday at the Rialto Theater.

Evelyn Keyes and Stephen McNally are also starred in "Iron Man," the first fight film in two years to strip the veil of romance from the ring and tell a hard-hitting tale of manipulation behind the scenes of the boxing arena.

Jeff Chandler, who has shone brightly in such recent films as "Sword in the Desert," "Broken Arrow," "Bird of Paradise" and "Smuggler's Island," plays the role of the fighting coal miner who takes an unmerciful beating every time he fights up to the point where his mind blanks out and he slugs his way to a win. The rugged star fights a total of seven bouts in "Iron Man," but contrary to the formula prize fight story, loses his most important match.

A few crusading producers have dared to tell realistic stories of the cold, hard trade of the pugilist and in most cases they have enjoyed smashing success at the box office. "Two of Three," "Golden Boy" and "Champion," not only made tremendous profits but shed their slumping boxes to immediate stardom. In the first instance it was William Holden and in the second, Kirk Douglas.

Other stars who have made smash successes in the cinema acquired circle include John Garfield, Wayne Morris, Jimmy Cagney, Bob Taylor, Clark Gable, Robert Ryan and countless others.

Seven newcomers Jack Hudson and Joyce Holden, two promising Universal-International contract players, head the strong supporting cast of "Iron Man."

JAPS OKAY TREATY

Tokyo, Oct. 26 (AP)—Japan's house of representatives today approved the peace treaty and the United States-Japan security pact.

The vote was 307 to 47 on the treaty and 289 to 71 on the pact.

Both documents go to the house of councilors (senate).

The security pact will permit the U. S. to retain military forces in and about Japan after the peace treaty ending World War II becomes effective.

Nurses Warned of Their Attitude

Little Rock, Oct. 26 (AP)—A St. Louis minister has warned Arkansas nurses against a professional attitude that would remove them too far from direct patient care.

In an address at the Arkansas State Nurses' association convention here last night, the Rev. John J. Flanagan of St. Louis declared:

"I'm afraid that the modern nurse is losing some of the respect and love she used to have. It is up to the nurses to determine how much of patient care they are going to retain, and how much they are going to surrender to other groups."

He said that nurses have developed professionally over the years, but added, "We should not be misled into interpreting a profession as that which has only rights and prerogatives."

A real professional person is dedicated to serving others."

Meeting in conjunction with the nurses are the Arkansas League of Nursing Education, Arkansas State Association of Nurses, American Nurses Association and the Arkansas State Organization for Public Health Nursing.

The public health group yesterday elected Miss Helen Mahaffey of Hot Springs, Garland county health nurse, as president.

Other officers include:

Mrs. Max Kitchens of Prescott, vice president; Mrs. Sarah Lou Butler of Hamburg, secretary; Miss Betty Oberlies of Little Rock, treasurer; Miss Myrtle Horton of Little Rock, new director; Miss Mildred Plank of Fayetteville, and Miss Laura Lee Mackey of Little Rock, nominating committee members.

The convention closes Saturday.

practices that according to the restricted use could very well be dangerous. This would raise the question of the possibility of endangering their own lives as well as the lives of others. In this instance a far greater responsibility of the Government would be involved.

It appears that some farmers in the area would require workers, that by employees of the Department to stay workers relieving their liability should an accident occur. This is recognition of the fact that even those who are taking chances in the area recognize the possible danger.

Because of these factors, it has been decided that to direct personnel under these circumstances to render the assistance on these farms in the area, where the actual use is contrary to that stipulated in the transfer by the War Department, would be unwise and inadvisable.

I have had occasion to check this with the Ordnance Department of the Army. They confirm the fact that the danger exists in some of these areas notwithstanding the fact that no serious accident has resulted. They do feel that under the circumstances it would be unsafe to waive the restriction in land use since they know of the existence of the danger.

Fortunately, there isn't so very much of this restricted property. I am sure you, as everyone, would want to urge a policy of utilizing this property only insofar as it would be safe to the owner as well as to other people who might possibly be present.

With kindest regards,
Sincerely yours,
Oren Harris, M. C.

GI Says Best Friend Broke Up His Home

Little Rock, Oct. 26 (AP)—Kenneth L. Lucas, a former Lonoke, Ark., teacher has accused his best friend of breaking up his home.

Lucas, who now is serving in Korea, filed a law suit here yesterday seeking $50,000 in damages against Charles H. Bishop, Little Rock service station operator.

The suit, filed through Lucas' attorney, charged Bishop with alienation of affections of Lucas' ex-wife, Wilma. The Lucas' were married in 1942 and were divorced last April. The former Mrs. Lucas married Bishop three months later.

Lucas contended in the suit that Bishop began courting his wife after he entered the service last March.

Tory Gets Into Laborite's Hall

London, Oct. 26 (AP)—Labor bigwigs listening to parliamentary election returns in their party headquarters last night, gasped when someone in the hall applauded a Tory win.

A short time later came the announcement of another Conservative victory. Again applause resounded from one corner of the hall.

This time an attendant was summoned and the offender thrown out.

The Socialists said the applauder was a Tory, but they didn't know how he got into the headquarters.

Princess, Duke Ignore Election

Seattle, Oct. 26 (AP)—An official spokesman for Britain's touring royal young couple rejected the suggestion last night that Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh have any "political" interest in Vancouver Island, B. C.

The royal couple is strictly non-political," the official, who asked anonymity, said in a telephone conversation with the Seattle Post-Intelligencer from England's lodge in the British election.

"The royal family is above politics," he said. "There is no comment they can make." The princess and her husband, Philip, are resting at the royal lodge from the rigors of their cross-country Canadian tour.

The spokesman conceded, however that Elizabeth and Philip were not above personal interest in the outcome of the election and were listening to the returns by radio last night at 11 p. m. PST (2 a. m. EST).

A buzzing sound on the lengthy country line then ensued—the conversation, either by whim of the elements, the telephone company or the spokesman, was over.

Two Missourians Die in Wreck

Bassett, Oct. 26 (AP)—Two unidentified St. Louis, Mo., men were killed and two other persons injured today in a head-on collision between a trailer-truck and an automobile.

The accident occurred at 5 a. m. (CST) on highway 66, near Bassett.

The injured men were identified as:

Samuel Edward Massa, 25, of St. Louis, a passenger in the car with the two persons who were killed. Massa suffered head injuries.

George Butler, Osceola, Ark., truck driver, who suffered broken ribs.

Romantic tug-of-war... Alexis SMITH, Bing CROSBY and Jane WYMAN in a happy scene from Paramount's "HERE COMES THE GROOM"

DOROTHY DIX

No Cure - All

Dear Miss Dix: Should I get a divorce now or postpone it until later? I am only 22 and have been married to George for seven years. I have always been in doubt as to whether or not I loved my husband. We have accomplished a lot together, building up a business of our own and a home, but I am not happy with him. Not long ago he began an affair with another woman, but instead of asking for a divorce, he tried to get me to leave him. Then, although I had never before looked at another man, I went out on one date. When I told George he said he was willing to give up the other woman and start all over again. I was sure then that I loved my husband and no one else. Now I'm afraid if we stay together he'll repeat his performance of infidelity. I won't ever be able to trust him again.

Answer: Why think of your solution only in terms of divorce? Adopt a constructive, rather than destructive, attitude and see what you can salvage from a marital situation which is precarious but by no means hopeless. A divorce in your case, would solve nothing. You'd still be faced with the problem of whether or not you loved your husband with the probability that as soon as you lost him you would decide he was the one man for you. Life! You can put your marriage on a sound basis only through a show of strength, not weakness, and nothing is so great a proof of weakness as a quick trip to a divorce court.

You Married Too Young

Of course you married too young—as did your husband—and now you both have reached the point of resentment the loss of fun, good times and romance that should have been your lot as carefree teenagers. Now, at still a comparatively young age, you are married folks of long-standing and must face the problems and responsibilities incurred. Having pledged his troth to one woman, George should accept his marriage vow and stop going out with other women, using as an excuse the fact that "he was always a philanderer." He can change too! You must rebuild your trust, convince George of your faith and determination to stick to your marriage. Above all, no matter what hubby does, don't continue the risky procedure of trying to make him jealous. It worked once, but might prove disastrous a second time.

Stop doubting your own love for your husband. Perhaps you let your doubts be too evident, hence his interest in other women! Don't be vacillating! Adopt the certain course that you do love him, you are going to make a success of your marriage, as you did of your business together, and make your assurance contagious. A good marriage does not come through chance; it is more often the result of hard work and constant effort. Exercise both!

Dear Miss Dix: Is there a chance of love, marriage and children (adopted if necessary) or is it too late for me at this stage? I am 29 years old (look younger) and for the past six years have been in a T. B. san. With God's help, the doctor's feel I'll be able to go home within a year or so and will be able to resume a normal life again.

Before I become ill, I had very little to do with boys as I have always been rather shy. Please give me your earnest opinion as to whether you think there is a chance for happiness in the only field I care about—namely, house wife and mother.

Answer: If you would send me your name and address, I would be glad to give you a list of books narrating the marvelous comebacks of former T. B. patients. With your doctor's assurance that your recovery is imminent, you can face the future with courage and confidence.

Your physical limitations are of course, a matter for the doctor to decide emotionally, you may find a little difficulty in adjusting to the outside world after the cloistered atmosphere of a sanatorium, but the old life and the new will soon be bridged.

Your age will certainly not be a barrier to romance. No age is! Many women marry, and for the first time, in their thirties. What you have to offer is the important issue; courage, a cheerful disposition and the ability to accept hardship with faith are the qualities that will bring you wish from life.

Dear Miss Dix: Having broken off with a boy I dated for seven months, should I return his gifts even though he doesn't want them? He says he bought them for me and doesn't want anyone else to have them.

Answer: Your ex-bean is right! Since these gifts not costly, and were bought especially for you, you should keep them. If your present steady doesn't wish to be reminded of your former attachment pack the presents away, but they are rightfully yours to keep.

Shore Guns Hit Ships, Many Hurt

Tokyo, Oct. 26 (AP)—One U. S. sailor was killed and six were injured when Red shore batteries hit the U. S. heavy cruiser Helena and the escort Destroyer Ulmer M. Moore recently off Korea's east coast.

Far East naval headquarters, making the disclosures today, said both ships remained on the battle line.

One shell hit the Moore Oct. 17. One man was killed and two injured. The destroyer was bombarded in the industrial area of Hungnam before dawn.

A Red shore battery hit the superstructure of the Helena Oct. 22. Four crew members were wounded superficially.

The Communists opened fire on the Helena about 11 a. m. They straddled the ship before scoring their one hit on the main deck above the starboard side.

It was the second time the Helena had been hit. On July 31 a Red battery struck the heavy cruiser and fragments injured two men.

Crosby Show Sunday at the Saenger

A superb cast, a hilarious story and a rich serving of songs have been artfully blended in Paramount's "Here Comes The Groom," the Bing Crosby comedy scheduled to open on Sunday at the Saenger Theatre. This latest and reportedly merriest of all the Groomer's film adventures, finds him in the stellar company of Jane Wyman, Alexis Smith, Franchot Tone and James Cagney in a Frank Capra production that pays out the laughs with all the hearty abandon of a shore-leave sailor unloading his coin.

There are lots of bonuses in this gleam-busting bonanza, too. Anna Maria Alberghetti, a sensational fifteen-year-old singing find, and Jackie Gleason, a wonderful talented young French actor, make their American film debuts. Jay Livingston and Ray Evans have concocted a bright and durable set of tunes for Her Bingle and his friends, with a one-song assist by Johnny Mercer and Hoagy Carmichael. The ditties include "Your Own Little House," "Bonne Nuit," "Misto Cristoforo Colombo" and "In the Cool, Cool, Cool of the Evening," this last by Mercer and Carmichael.

The laugh-loaded story casts Bing as a reporter who's given a week by immigration authorities to find a mother for two orphans he had adopted in France. His fiancée, Fred by a three-year engagement, has become engaged to a millionaire socialite in Bing's absence, and his upbraiding attempts to garner a mother for his prefabriated family serve as a springboard for a series of howling situations.

According to wet-eyed previewers, this is the perfect mating of the famed Frank Capra comedy magic and Crosby's wide-ranging talents in a film that is funny, bright and heart-warming. Capra, who directed such comedy milestones as "It Happened One Night" and "Mr. Deeds Goes To Town," is said to have turned in his finest job, and Bing's performance is reportedly a honey that will place him even more firmly in the affections of his many fans.

The screenplay was written by Virginia Van Upp, Liam O'Brien and Myles Connolly.

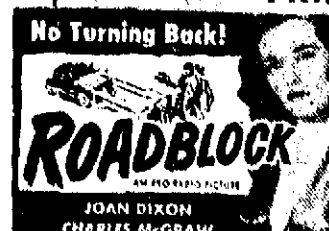

About 340 tons of meal and 42,000 gallons of oil were produced as by-products of sealing operations on the Pribilof Islands in 1950.

Razzle-Dazzle May Feature Porker Game
 By CARL BELL

Little Rock, Oct. 26 (AP)—A full-dress show of razzle-dazzle football is in prospect for tomorrow night when the Arkansas Razorbacks square off against the Santa Clara Broncos and the War Memorial stadium jinx.

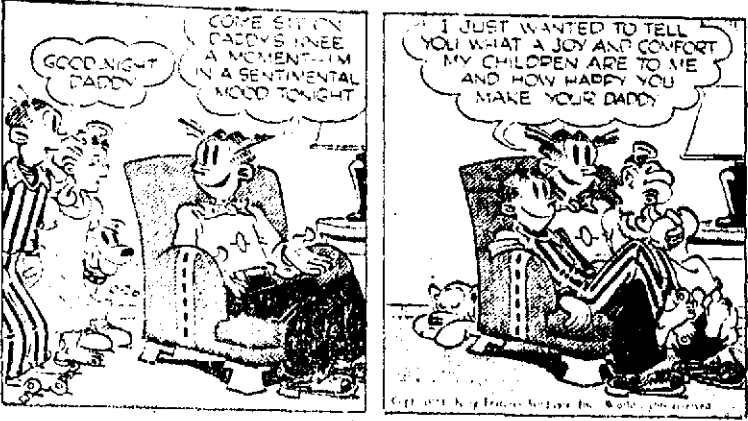

While the Razorbacks would like to throw the ball perhaps a bit more than they have in earlier games this season, which has been plenty, it could be Santa Clara which forces the hand.

The Broncos will be badly out-weighted and their chances of overpowering Arkansas' big, tough line appear dim. So the Californians will doubtless rely upon their aerial attack, which, despite a lackluster record, has attracted attention on the West Coast.

Scout reports have warned the Razorbacks that the passing of Quarterback Johnny Pacey will be most troublesome. His chief targets are Ends Glen Nagler and Dick Wilborn and Halfback Del Roussemont.

Pacey throws from anywhere on the field. In the Broncos' victory over Loyola of Los Angeles, he overtook one from his eighty-yard line. The result was a 91-yard touchdown.

YOU IN THE CHURCH

THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are making religious character. Students today desire that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Join us with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH
GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

A PARTNERSHIP, a pain, a doctor, a life and a responsibility.
That's the record. That's the beginning of your child. "Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me; for such is the Kingdom of Heaven," thus reads one of the sweetest verses from the dearest book. That is the commission which came with your little girl and your little boy. Teach them; love them; guide them...the spiritual assets of every life and of every home. You are their ideal, you are their champion.

HAVE YOU A HEART? Of course you have. And yet, it is not your very own.
For hearts were given us that we might give them away. Then, give yours to your child...to your family. The Kingdom belongs to them. Accept the responsibility of parenthood in a spirit of humility. "Mighty Lack a Rose" today but what will he or she be like tomorrow? Your child has a right to a sense of Divine concern. Take him to Church where faithful souls teach the word of God. For they alone will be able to bring to pass the dreams that have urged us on. May we invest our best in our greatest assets; the child of today; the woman and man of tomorrow. May we be their hero, their ideal, their champion, in this "drama of life."
